Download DBEditDefinition of the elbow. A comprehensive review of anatomy and function. Although the elbow is commonly injured in the athletic population, it is also a common site for infectious and degenerative diseases, such as rheumatoid arthritis and cubitus varus. An understanding of the anatomy and function of the elbow and its surrounding structures aids in the formulation of specific diagnosis and treatment. The patient's history and clinical findings can indicate specific diagnoses, and a radiologic examination can confirm or rule out specific diagnoses or guide the physician in the appropriate management. 1066 (Fed.Cir.1986). II. CONSTRUCTIVE TRUTH AND FRAUD. The first prong of constructive fraud is that the defendant has breached his or her duty to the plaintiff as "an individual member of the general public." Leighton v. Dixon Investment Co., 877 F.2d 1421, 1427 (10th Cir.1989). This duty is based upon the relationship which exists between the seller and the buyer of a "product." Id. The plaintiff alleges that defendant has breached that duty in his role as Buyer's Broker because he has marketed his companies as the only, and therefore best, means of acquiring estates and working interests in oil and gas rights. The principles underlying this cause of action in Colorado are the same as those announced in Leighton. In Leighton, the court found that it was important to examine whether any wrongdoing by the defendant was directed towards the plaintiff rather than to a fraudulent scheme that the defendant knew was *1276 being perpetrated upon numerous others. Id. at 1428. In so doing, the court determined that there was no relationship between the parties until
