"As long as he's OK from a nutritional standpoint," I say. "And gets plenty of rest, I'm all for it." "I think I'm excited about it too," he says, a slight blush on his cheek. "Even though I don't need to do it for this reason." "You're a natural," I say. "It's kind of refreshing. And that's never been your problem. You've just done it naturally." "You know, you can take a natural approach to eating," Alan says. "Not just to exercise." "That's true," he says. "And it makes me think about where you are in your life. You know, with the whole thing with Matt. It really doesn't matter what's happening with you. The important thing is what you're doing for your friend and your family. I think that's the hardest thing. I've got a young family, and if anything ever happened to either of them, it would devastate me. But I think I could handle it better than I think most people could. We've been through a lot together." "We have," I agree. "But I don't think I'd be able to handle it the same way if something happened
